The 14th Annual Clinical Magnetic Resonance Society (CMRS) meeting will again bring together the thought leaders of radiology and offer an intensely practical teaching experience specifically designed for physicians and technologists who are actively engaged in the practice of MR. Panel discussions of imaging technique and protocols will be combined with focused lectures that include both essential and advanced MR topics. Radiologists will benefit from unique discussions of MR reporting, while technologists will enjoy concurrent breakout sessions specifically designed for their needs.

Exhibitors are invited to play a role in this important exchange of information that takes place at the CMRS Annual meeting by presenting their products and services to the active, receptive audience of decision makers. Companies offering technology or services in support of the field will find exhibiting to be a productive, cost-effective means to reach their target audience.

Make the CMRS an integral part of your organization's 2010 marketing efforts. Learn more by visiting the CMRS website at www.cmrs.org or by contacting Elizabeth Trombetta at 813-806-1080 or etrombetta@cmrs.com.
